State Capitol Brings Civil War Home Front to Life for 2nd Saturday Event

By Terra Schramm, Education & Outreach

The State Capitol will host a living history event to demonstrate what life was like for citizens of Raleigh living on the Civil War home front in the summer of 1862. The free event will take place Saturday, June 9, from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Visitors can visit a recreated Confederate post office, learn about Raleigh's several hospitals from a re-enactor playing the part of a surgeon, or attend a soldiers' benefit concert in the historic House Chamber performed by the Huckle-

Save the Date for these 2nd Saturday Events

July 14: State Library's 200th Birthday

The State Library, now celebrating its 200th anniversary, started off as a small collection held in the State House, and later the State Capitol. Join staff for special tours of the recreated library on the 3rd floor of the Capitol and see an exhibit of rare books from the library's earliest days. 1- 4 p.m.

August 11: Gov. Vance's 1862 Inauguration Bash

Meet a costumed interpreter playing the part of NC's most famous Civil War governor and hear his inaugural speech as he prepares to take office in the midst of the great war. 1 p.m.

Dear Friends,

There are no words to express to you how much you've touched my heart during these past couple of weeks as my family and I have been struggling to deal with and accept Cecil's illness and death.

We're overwhelmed with the number of cards, calls, visits, memorials, food and most of all with your care and concern. When I saw our volunteers sitting together at Cecil's memorial service, it brought even more tears to my eyes.

I've always said we have the best group of people anywhere and you have proven that once again. I will never forget how our staff and volunteers have cared for me, done my work for me, listened to me and given support in every way. This is the saddest time in my life but having friends like all of you are helping make it a bit less painful. My love and thanks to you.

Love, Cathy

Capitol to Dedicate Five New Outdoor Benches

The Capitol will host an unveiling and dedication ceremony for five new outdoor benches on Wednesday, June 13, at 11 am on the south plaza of the grounds.

The benches were sponsored by the staff members of Governor Perdue, former Governors Martin, Holshouser, Kerr Scott, Robert Scott and Secretary of State Thad Eure.

The Carolina Bronze foundry in Seagrove, NC, manufactured the benches, which are modeled on the current iron benches on the square that date from the 1890s.

Docents are welcome to attend!

The Signal is published twelve times per year by the North Carolina State Capitol, Division of State Historic Sites, Department of Cultural Resources. It is sent to all active State Capitol volunteers.
